Paythorne is surely one of the most idyllic Hamlets in this unspoilt corner of rural Lancashire. The Buck Country Pub is just that, a 18th Century Pub that has been tucked away in this wonderful little hidden hamlet for centuries. Previously known as The Buck Inn and The Palmer's Arms it occupies a prominent position in the middle of this quiet settlement. Boasting a traditional informal pub atmosphere with some modern tasteful touches, the Buck offers the perfect pint, excellent food and always a warm welcome served with a smile.

You can be sure you will get a real family welcome. We take a lot of care in the sourcing and preparation of our food. Much of it is produced locally and our philosophy is to cook good, honest dishes. We make no apologies that we are a pub, and you'll find some fine local ales as well as an impressive wine list in our cosy bar.

Members are invited back to Rosemary & Peter's lodge, close by, for tea and cakes.

Please contact Rosemary & Peter (details above) by Saturday August 3rd to book your place.
